The Fourth Estate

Novelized by Frederick R. Toombs. (Continued from | Yesterday).

The juage's matures showed but little of the storm into which his emotions had been plunged. His years of practiced self control had come to his aid and enabled him to face the ruin of his career and his life and his name without the frenzied demonstration in which most men in his position would have indulged. To the last he was the cool, polished, suave hypocrite that he had been in the beginning, when those who sought to loot the public for private gain found bim a willing tool.

"He is right." Bartelmy said to Judith. "He has told you the truth to night-the absolute truth." He looked at his watch. "Six hours, did you say. Mr. Brand?" he asked.

Brand had gathered Judith in his arms. She sighed contentedly as she laid her head upon his shoulder 'Yes," he answered the judge.

Judge Bartelmy stood watching the united couple for a moment before h turned and walked away, muttering as he went: "Six hours. One may travel far in these days in that time."

The great ship heaved and lunged through the giant sens that swept over her bows, out of the freezing night, ou of the cold northeast. The captain and the first officer, lashed to opposite ends of the lofty bridge, choked in the flying spume of wind riven midocean. Somewhere a deep toned bell told of the hour in the sailors' accustomed fashion. From somewhere out of the depths of the vast groaning fabric tumbled the men of the watch who were now to go on duty to relieve their storm beaten fellows. And somewhere down in the shiv ering, rearing hull a gaunt faced, hollow eyed man lay on the saffron hued velvet cushions of a narrow couch at the side of a luxurious stateroom. He was fully dressed in spite of the lateness of the hour and of the fact that he was sleeping-just as he had been the night before. 'He tossed uneasily Sometimes he thrust his hands out convulsively as though to ward off a threatening danger. He began to talk incoherently. The ship rolled, and a tray containing dishes and an evening meal that had gone untouched crashed to the floor. "The press-the printing press-has started," he muttered disjointedly as the sound of the breaking dishes penetrated into his wearied His hand instinctively crept under one of the cushions. It grasped and for a moment fumbled with a blue steel object, which it drew weakly forth-a revolver. $3.50 Recipe Cures PERSONALS AND NEWS Weak Men---FREE Send Name and Address Today

-You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Vigorous.

I have in my possession a precsription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakened man hood, failing memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, unaataral drains, or the foilies of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power and virility, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men and I am convinced it is the surest acting combination for the cure of deficient manhood and vigor failure ever ficient manhood and vigor failure ever put together.

I think I owe it to my fellow man to send them a copy in confidence so that any man anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop drugging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what I believe is the quickest acting restorative, uppedliding, SPOT TOUCHING remedy ever devised, and so cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 4049 Luck Building, Detroit Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendld recipe in a plain ordinary envelope free of charge. A great many doctors would charge $3.00 to $5.00 for merely writing out a prescription like this—but I send it entirely free.
